STATE INSTITUTION HAS NEW BUILDING

New Primary Building at Cedar Springs to Be Occupied By October 1st.

Spartanburg, Sept. 20.--The building for the primary department of the State Institute for the Deaf and the Blind at Cedar Spring, which has been in course of erection for the past year, has been completed by the contractor, A. Justice, and by the end of this month will be occupied by the little children of the institute and their teachers and caretakers. It consists of a male building of three stories dimensions 18x55 feet, and annex in rear, one story, 50x80 feet. The entire plant was built at a cost of $50,000 and three-quarters of a million of brick were used in its construction.

This building is erected on a mound nearest the main approach to the institute grounds, presenting a commanding and inviting appearance from any point of view. Its architectural style is a modern development of the "colonial", beautifully harmonizing in all characteristic with the original institute building. The entire building is slate-covered and the stone trimmings set off the brick work to the best possible advantage.

QUAKERS REPORT ON WORK OF RELIEF IN NORTHERN FRANCE

London, September 1.--(Associated Press Correspondence.)--The reports issued by the English society of Friends (Quakers) on their work in the devastated sections of Northern France give a vivid account of the destruction and the attempts at reconstruction. Twelve of these reports have now been issued, covering a wide range of territory.

The society begins by sending out investigators, who are usually women who have been trained in social work. In accordance with their reports the other workers follow. Nurses visit patients in their own homes, builders erect huts for the homeless peasants, and there is a growing department of agricultural relief. There are four main divisions of activity, with about 125 volunteers from England and a number from other countries.

"Imagine," writes one of the workers, "a village in your own vicinity, it may be your home--with some 700 houses of which 650 have been burned to the ground, and then you will be able to form some idea of what this village from which I am writing is like. The inhabitants left in astounding bewilderment, hardly able to believe that the German army was so close, and so in the hurry and scramble to get away they left everything behind them, innocently expecting to find their belongings again when they returned. And so, when they returned, a few days after the German retreat, conceive their sorrow and chagrin on finding their houses razed to the ground and all trace of their possessions gone. All their hay and crops, cattle, rabbits, everything, burnt or destroyed. I admire their courage as I see them grubbing in the ruins, searching for some lost thing, or beginning--where would you begin--to clear away the debris."

"The secretary of the relief committee, Miss Ruth Fry, writes: 'It is not only the material help given. The most important aspect is the courage raised anew in these much-tried sufferers, to whom the coming of the helpers is a very impressive sign of the reality of our friendship. The supreme evil of war is not death, but despair. Against such despair the Quaker fights.'"

"At first the medical side of the work predominated. At Chalons, for instance, a Maternity Hospital was organized. The following is from the report of the work of this hospital: 'Although we were foreigners and strangers to Madame L., she came away with us. It was her first baby. Her husband, a compositor in Rheims before he was called to the colors, had been seriously wounded four months before, and since then she had had no news at all. She spoke of him during the long ride back to the hospital, and she told us of the horrors of the bombardment and her six weeks' sojourn in the cellars. She spoke of the Germans in Rheims and said they were very polite and nice to her and to her friends. One she had met had been very sad and had wept over having to fight and leave his wife and children. She showed us in her husband's picture and he wished her good fortune and his safe return. Her courage was splendid. Just before a little daughter was born to her the news came that her husband was dead. Her courage never faltered. 'For my dear girl I want to be strong,' she said."

HERRICK PRAISES OBJECTS OF RURAL CREDITS MOVEMENT

"If American farmers should awake to the full realization of the possibilities, they would soon be using co-operation in all their industrial, commercial, and financial affairs relating to agriculture. With the splendid examples in the city before them, it is strange that they have lain dormant so long. Co-operation may, of course, be practiced through a corporation or in a partnership, but the association is its best breeding ground and nursery. In the United States, however, the purposes and ordinary banking have been content with the corporation and partnership. The propagandists should broaden their views and strive to make law for associations whatever may now be done through these other two forms of organization. Furthermore, if they wish to see rural co-operation reach its highest development, they should advocate such a modification of the anti-trust laws as would permit co-operative associations to combine."

Short-Headed.

While traveling through Alabama a young salesman was one day forced to dine at a farmhouse, says The National Magazine. Not being very well satisfied with his meal or cornbread and bacon, he asked if he might have a glass of milk.

"No," replied his host. "Ah don't reckon you'll find any milk around here since the dog died."

"Since the dog died?" echoed the stranger. "What's that got to do with it?"

"Why," replied the farmer, "who do you all reckon's goin' to go an' fetch the cows?"

Every woman looks forward to the time when she'll be in a position to boss some man.

Operation Not Needed

Mrs. W. A. Barnes, who lives in Ballard, Calif., has sent to the Pius laboratories a very strong endorsement of Fruitola and Traxo. In her letter, Mrs. Barnes says:

"Doctors say gall-stones cannot be cured without an operation, costing much money as well as unnecessary suffering. I am cured, I know, and this is proof positive, and my friends know that such is the case."

Fruitola is a powerful lubricant for the intestinal organs, softening the hardened particles that cause so much suffering and expelling the congested waste in an easy, natural manner. A single dose is usually sufficient to clearly indicate its efficacy. Traxo is a splendid tonic alternative that acts on the liver and kidneys, stimulates the flow of gastric juices to aid digestion, and removes bile from the general circulation. Traxo should be taken three or four times a day following a dose of Fruitola to strengthen and restore the weakened, run-down system.

For the convenience of the public, arrangements have been made to supply Fruitola and Traxo through leading drug stores. In Anderson they can be obtained at Evans' Pharmacy, three stores.

Useless. In the lobby of a hotel the assembled delegates were discussing the servant problem, when Congressman Charles H. Dillon of South Dakota recalled an appropriate story, says The Philadelphia Record. Recently a prominent matron in a big Easter gown had occasion to employ a new domestic, and as soon as the girl reached the house a large questioning seance started. "I suppose, Gwendolyn," remarked the matron, "that they served the dinner in courses where you worked last?"

"Yes, ma'am, answered Gwendolyn, reflectively. "That is, they did sometimes and sometimes they didn't."

"Um, I see," thoughtfully responded the matron and then continued: "Did they use finger bowls?"

"No, ma'am," was the startling rejoinder of the domestic, "they always washed before they came to the table."

"Poverty," said Mr. Duston Stax, "is no disgrace." "No," replied Mr. Growcher. "Poverty is like wealth in one way. The amount of respect attached to it depends entirely on how you came by it.--Washington Star.

TAKE SALTS FOR THE KIDNEYS IF YOUR BACK HURTS

We Should Drink Lots of Water and Eat Less Meat, Says Noted Authority on Kidney Disorders

Recommends a Spoonful of Jad Salts in Glass of Water Before Breakfast to Stimulate Kidneys and Eliminate the Uric Acid

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked, get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy, the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad. Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness. Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, make everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.
